Fork in the road for region's future

Armidale Regional Council's (ARC) annual Integrated Planning and Reporting (IP&R) documents, including the proposed 2022-23 Budget, Fees and Charges and Resourcing Strategy, are now on Public Exhibition for community feedback.

Since elected in December last year the new council has run on an agenda of bold action for growth and renewal to turn around the fortunes of the Armidale region. While the new council wants to be a progressive and expanding council, it has been left a legacy by previous councils to fix what has not been done in the past and get back to basics, increase efficiency, recover asset costs and deliver greater levels of service to the community.

ARC Mayor Sam Coupland said council is stuck between a rock and a hard place and have two options – grow our way out or manage the decline.

"From a councillor perspective it's not an easy job, but not having rates appropriately set by the councils before us has led to the revenue issues we face today," said Mayor Coupland

"We have a multi-million-dollar shortfall in asset maintenance and that backlog is swamping us – particularly our roads network. Growing our way out will ease the burden for all when our population increases, but it is going to take time. Managing a decline will see the vulnerable in our community suffer the most as the services and amenities they use will be reduced. Growth is our only option.

The Draft Operational Plan and Budget for 2022-23 outlines a roadmap for the future. The roadmap is outlined in the Delivery Program 2022-26 which includes a proposed Special Rate Variation of 50 percent over three years and is based on a plan to spend the next two years focused on restoring the council's financial viability and then using the improved financial position to invest in infrastructure and quality community services.

"No-one wants to pay more in rates – but the lack of action by past councils has forced our hand," said Mayor Coupland

"In the coming financial year council will go into deficit and dip into reserves. Any meaningful rate increase won't come into effect until midway through 2023 when we will see our financials turn around and we can build a stronger and resilient region."

During the last six weeks councillors, senior executive and staff have analysed countless scenarios, reviewed every budget item line by line and have presented the most feasible options for public exhibition in the draft strategic direction documents, which include:

- Draft Advancing our Region Community Plan – 2022-2023
- Draft Delivery Program 2022 2026
- Draft Resourcing Strategy

- Draft Operational Plan and Budget 2022-2023
- Draft Revenue Policy 2022 2023
- Draft Fees and Charges 2022 2023

"The Community Strategic Plan tells us where we want to be, the Delivery Program tells us how we will get there and the Resourcing Strategy tells us what resources we have available. The Operational Plan supports the Delivery Program and includes the annual budget allocations to support the activities to be undertaken," said Mayor Coupland

"While Council is very open to hear all of the needs and priorities of the community during the engagement process, at some point decisions have to be made about where council's limited resources are directed."

The draft IP&R and Budget 2022-23 documents are on public exhibition until Wednesday 8 June and the community are encouraged to review the documents in detail and provide feedback. Visit yoursay.armidale.nsw.gov.au to review the documents, fact sheets and summaries and review the engagement opportunities to provide feedback through face-to-face meetings, online webinars, a formal submission or just send council a letter.

If you are not online, hard copies of the suite of documents are available at the Armidale and Guyra Customer Service Centres.

Busy time for local dancers

Australian Dance Enterprises (ADE) has had a busy few months with two very special events "Dancing with the Stars" and "Fleece to Fashion Gala Awards".

ADE students and teachers were involved with choreography and performances for the successful night of Dancing with the Stars (DWS) held at the Armidale Ex-Services Club on Saturday the 2nd of April. DWS is a Cancer Council fundraiser and this year ADE along with eight local "Stars" helped to raise over $76,000. All money raised will remain in our local area for cancer patients to access. ADE provided their time freely to help prepare five Stars and taught them a dance routine over a 10 week period that was performed on the night. Our senior dance troupe entertained the audience with various performances throughout the evening. Local Guyra students Maddi Collins, Shanae Wark and Molly Brazier were back-up dancers for two of the Stars as well as performing in our senior troupe dances.

ADE was also invited to choreograph the opening number and perform at "Fleece to Fashion Gala Awards" on Friday the 6th and Saturday the 7th of May. Fleece to Fashion promotes our local woolgrowers and Australian Wool Industry by providing a competition for innovative wool design and is open to anyone and any age all over Australia.

More than 350 people attended the black-tie event at the iconic Deeargee Woolshed at Gostwyck near Uralla. ADE senior troupe performed the spectacular opening number choreographed by ADE dance teacher Breanna Mc-Fadyen. They performed "All That Jazz" which set the tone for an exciting night of glitz and glamour. Local Guyra students Reeghan Woods, Shanae Wark & Molly Brazier were selected to dance along with four other ADE Armidale students. Molly Brazier was also selected as a model and wore a number of lovely garments on the night including a beautiful purple wool dress designed by Samantha Stolhand from Young, the winning design under the category "Roberts and Morrow Race Wear".

Joyce promises $3 million for Early Learning Centre

Member for New England and Deputy Prime Minister Barnaby Joyce has made a pre-election promise to provide $3 million towards a $4.2 million project for the proposed Guyra Early Learning Centre.

Mr Joyce made the announcement in Armidale on Friday as the 2022 election campaign draws to a close. In a media statement he said that 'the Coalition Government will provide $3 million towards a $4.2 million project for the Guyra Early Learning Centre to re-locate to a new, fit-for-purpose centre' and that 'only the Coalition will deliver for the residents of Guyra and this announcement is part of our plan to build a strong economy and a stronger future'.

The proposed early learning centre is still in the planning stages and work has stalled due to lack of funds. Plans were first unveiled in May 2020, with a joint announcement from Armidale Regional Council and Mr Joyce. At that time, it was described as a $1.5m project with $613,000 from the federal government and a proposed council input of $900,000.

Mr Joyce said the local families and staff of the Guyra Early Childhood Learning Centre will benefit greatly from the revamped centre.

"Childcare in regional Australia and especially in my electorate of New England is a top priority, that's why the Coalition Government is committing $3 million to improve those services in Guyra," the Deputy Prime Minister said.

"This new facility will double childcare spaces, equating to an additional 29 spaces per day for children six years and under, also including thirty out of school hours care or holiday care spaces.

"The proposed location for the new centre will create a one-stop community and learning precinct, which will soon become part of the fabric of the Guyra CBD and community."

Armidale Regional Council anticipates this project to have a significant impact on the Guyra community through increased employment opportunities, greater access to learning and study environments and the ability to meet higher quality childcare standards.

Guyra home searched by Federal Police

A 38-year-old man appeared in Armidale Local Court on May 4th, 2022, charged with allegedly possessing child abuse material online.

On 13 April 2022, officers from the AFP Eastern Command Child Protection Operations team arrested and charged the man, following a search of his Guyra home

The man was investigated as part of Operation Molto, which commenced in 2019 when the AFP-led Australian Centre to Counter Child Exploitation (ACCCE) received intelligence from New Zealand Te Tari Taiwhenua Department of Internal Affairs showing thousands of offenders were using a cloud storage platform to share abhorrent child abuse material online.

The offender's account was identified via an email address, which was also the subject of a report from the National Centre for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC) in the US.

Investigators allegedly linked the man to the email addresses associated with the account.

The man was arrested and charged with two counts of possess or control child abuse material accessed or obtained using a carriage service, contrary to section 474.22A of the Criminal Code Act 1995 (Cth).

Detective Acting Sergeant

Federal Police arrested the man after searching the Guyra home in April

Adam Barcham said this arrest was another reminder of the commitment undertaken by the AFP and its partners to protect children and identify and prosecute anyone who seeks to exploit and harm them.

"Anyone who produces or shares child abuse material is part of the problem, it is they who create the market for child abuse material online, which causes further harm to our community's most vulnerable - our children," Detective Acting Sergeant Barcham The ACCCE is committed to stopping child exploitation and abuse and is at the centre of a collaborative national approach to combatting organised child abuse.

The Centre brings together specialist expertise and skills in a central hub, supporting investigations into child sexual abuse and developing prevention strategies focused on creating a safer online environment.

Members of the public who have any information about people involved in child abuse and exploitation are urged to call Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000 or www.accce.gov.au/report.

If you or someone you know are impacted by child sexual abuse and online exploitation there are www.accce.gov.au/sup-port

Advice and support for parents and carers about how they can help protection children online can be found at www.ThinkU-Know.org.au an AFP-led education program designed to prevent online child sexual exploitation.

Relieving Deputy Principal joins team

Janette Holmes has joined Guyra Central School as relieving Deputy Principal during Term 2 and Term 3. Janette is joining Guyra Central School from Armidale Secondary College and is very excited about working in a small school where she will be able to get to know students and their families. Janette has already met many wonderful students and families at the school and is feeling very welcomed by the community.

Janette grew up in Armidale, attending Armidale High School for her Secondary education followed by tertiary studies at UNE. Janette's first teaching appointment was at Guyra Central School, but it was only for a short time until she moved to Oxley High School in Tamworth. Since working at Oxley High School Janette has taught across the state, working in Broken Hill, Quirindi, Uralla and Armidale. Janette is passionate about education and knows that education can change lives.

Janette and her husband have a small rural property in the region. They run Black Angus cattle and Merino sheep. Between farming and teaching Janette enjoys quieter pursuits, like cryptic crosswords and cooking.

Janette is extremely proud of her family. Janette has adult children and six (soon to be eight) grandchildren who enjoy school, gymnastics and soccer. You could see Janette on the side of a soccer field any Saturday.

Janette is enjoying her time at Guyra Central School and looks forward to meeting many more members of the community over the coming weeks.

Grip Leadership Conference

On Monday, 16th May 2022 the 3-6 students from Black Mountain Public School travelled to Armidale to attend the Grip Leadership Conference at the Armidale Ex Services Club.

The sessions included a main presentation, interactive activities, discussions, leadership games and entertainment. The topics for the day were Stepping up in Leadership, Stepping up Integrity and a New Standard of Ideas. The students all had a great day meeting other future leaders and participating in the fun activities. A big thankyou to Mrs Tombs who accompanied the students in my absence.

How do I vote if I catch COVID during election week?

Emergency telephone voting has been introduced for voters forced to isolate with COVID. It is something the Australian Electoral Commission (AEC) has been working on after the law was changed in February to allow people to vote over the phone.

You will need to provide proof of a positive COVID test from either a PCR test or a rapid antigen test (RAT). Tests must also be registered with your state or territory health authority. Voters will need to provide proof of the date and time of their positive PCR result, or the serial number of their RAT.

The AEC says voters will have to go through a few steps to access telephone voting. You will need to register on the AEC website.

Once there, you will need to provide evidence of being COVID positive and make a declaration about your eligibility. You will then be matched to the electoral roll.

Checks will also be made to confirm that you have not already voted by telephone or another method.

The AEC says the service will be available to those who are required to be in COVID isolation for three days up to and including election day. That's Thursday May 19, Friday May 20 and Election Day, on Saturday May 21.

These days come right after the final date to register for a postal vote, which is Wednesday May

Out with the roundabout, in with a Give Way sign

The roundabout at the intersection of Bradley and Mackenzie Streets will be removed following a recommendation by the traffic committee of Armidale Regional Council (ARC).

The committee recommended the removal of the roundabout and that the intersection revert to a standard tee intersection.

They said that he traffic counts are considered low and not significant to warrant management with a roundabout.

The roundabout was installed on a trial basis by Guyra Shire Council (GSC) in 2009. At the time GSC said it was 'a pro-active measure to improve the safety for all motorists, in particular to provide a safe and legal u-turn facility for car and utilities".

Following a 28 day public exhibition period, 11 submissions were received opposing the proposal based on public safety, traffic conditions and maintenance concerns.

The recommendation was resolved to approve the works and will commence when the planned bitumen resealing and asphalt works commence. Replacing the roundabout will be a 'Give Way' sign with the appropriate marking.

Motorists can still undertake legal u-turns within Bradley Street. Alternatively, motorists can travel a short distance around the block in order to reenter Bradley Street.

No improvement for telecommunications

Despite years of discussion and a review of regional telecommunications in 2018, there appears to be very little improvement in mobile coverage and internet services for the residents of New England.

Laura Hughes, Labor Candidate for New England said that she is finding it hard to see positive outcomes in our connectivity, despite the vast financial investment announced by the local member Barnaby Joyce over many years.

"Mr Joyce spruiks that he has worked hard to deliver new and upgraded mobile base stations in the New England to improve mobile coverage under the $220 million Mobile Black Spot Program, but where is the improvement?"

"People from all over the electorate are fed up with the poor mobile and internet services that we currently have."

"The LNP government themselves say good quality telecommunications underpins economic growth, social connection, employment opportunities, education and health services and yet, in a time when we need stable and secure internet services more than ever, we have to 'make do'."

A Labor government will:

- •Boost NBN speeds on NBN Fixed wireless
- Increase NBN Satellite data allowances
- Expand world-class fibre access in the regions currently relying on copper wire
- •Conduct a national audit of mobile coverage
- •Boost mobile coverage on roads on black spots in regional communities
- •Solve local connectivity problems to meet community needs
- •Boost on farm connectivity so farmers can take advantage of connected machinery and sensor technology.

Rural Market Reports

Guyra Sheep & Lamb Sale

May 11th - There was a reduced penning of 2940 lambs, with 2779 sheep yarded, down slightly. The quality of the lambs was fair to good, as was condition. There was a good supply of well finished lambs to suit processors, along with a good selection for restockers. The usual buyers were in attendance.

There were varying trends in the market for lambs to restockers. Demand was a little weaker for the plainer condition light weights with the market trend firm to cheaper. The heavier weights carrying more condition sold to a dearer trend. Well finished lambs to processors in all weight classes sold to dearer trends.

There was plenty of skin value on offer in the sheep yarding. Spring shorn Merino ewes well supplied. Condition was fair to good. Strong processor demand for all classes, little in the way of restocker activity on the light weight sheep. A strong market with trends dearer. There were significant gains posted in many cases.

Armidale Cattle Sale

May 12th - The numbers increased by more than double with a total yarding of 988. There was a fair supply of young cattle, however grown cattle and cows made up the bulk of the penning. The quality of the offering was fair to good with some well bred lines of young cattle available. There was plenty of condition on offer, particularly through the older steers, heifers and cows. The increased supply brought with it an increase in buyers who operated throughout. The big rain in the North putting pressure on supply brought about the return of 2 major processors after a long ab-

There were varying trends through the young cattle with restocker activity high on the lighter end of the vealer steers selling to a dearer trend, while the heavier weights were cheaper. The increased competition saw medium and heavy weight yearling steers sell to dearer trends. A very mixed quality penning of yearling heifers sold to cheaper trends, some significant falls shown.

Heavy weight grown steers attracted competition from processors and also bullock fatteners. Market trends were dearer as a result. Well finished grown heifers sold to cheaper trends despite extra competition. The cow market also experienced a cheaper trend,. The increased competition however was reflected in the bull market where demand was high. The market for heavy weight bulls was significantly dearer.

Weekly Wool Market

May 13th - The market lifted for the third consecutive week. A 22 cent jump in the Northern region indicator on the first day of sales was followed up with a further 10 cent increase on the final day. The finer types continue to lead the overall market higher with the 18 and 18.5 micron indicators closing the week at their seasonal high points.

The rise in the market corresponded with the continuation of the fall in the Aussie dollar against the US. The exchange rate briefly fell below 69 cents on Thursday - its lowest level since June 2020. This resulted in a final market quote that was actually minus 3 cents in US dollars.

This week's closing level has dragged the market to within 20 cents of its seasonal highpoint and is the third highest end of week closing level for the current season. 37,594 bales were sold nationally with a passed in rate of 9%.

Major buyers included Techwool, Tianyu and Meliwa with strong support evident from most of the trade. Next week's national offering is expected to be around 4,800 bales larger with total bales offered for the season to date 10% or 145,000 bales greater than last season.

Gazette's Celebrity Footy Tipping

The Locals Leaderboard had quite a shake-up this week with many changing Garden Gurus slipped from 2nd to 4th place thanks to scoring only 6 points. Our Soldier remains in 2nd place on 110 points but Angel is right behind him on 108.

The Red Devils are still in the top spot on 112 points, but have had the lead reduced to just 2 points.

Sarah has been toppled from the top of the Celebrity Leaderboard and is now in 2nd place on 104 points along with Sue, Soley and the Gazette.

The lads at Fourways have taken the lead on 108 points, Cody and HD are on 96 points and Vu, who had a real shocker, increased his score by just 2 points to 94.

State Budget has to kick-start reforms for regional health

NORTHERN Tablelands MP Adam Marshall has used a speech on the floor of State Parliament to double down on his calls for a complete overhaul of the rural and regional health care system, declaring there is no better opportunity than the upcoming State Budget to start reforming the sector.

Mr Marshall said the current funding models and management structures within NSW Health showed contempt for the people who live outside of Newcastle, Sydney and Wollongong.

"Change is such a simple word, but one which strikes fear into the hearts of many policy makers and public servants, particularly those in NSW Health," Mr Marshall said.

"I renew my call for the Government to implement all 44 recommendations from the recent Upper House inquiry and to make a start on it right now.

"We must scrap the failed visiting medical officer system in regional areas, employ doctors directly in our district hospitals and re?empower local communities.

"If we keep doing what we have always done, we will keep getting what we have always got.

"The State Parliament, and this Government, now have a document that unequivocally shines a light on the policy and structural issues that are plaguing our rural and regional healthcare system, and that constructively provides a stepbystep road map to address them."

Mr Marshall also reconfirmed his position there needs to be greater accountability for Local Health Districts (LHDs) and improvements made to workplace culture for staff.

"The level of transparency and accountability that the LHDs have to the communities, which fund them, and in some cases to their own Minister, is completely nonexistent," he said.

"Once again I say how pleased I am with the recommendations for reforms targeting our health district structures.

"Many people who work within the healthcare system are clearly terrified to speak out and be honest about what is going on – that has to end

"I have been one of the most adamant and loudest critics of the senior management, particularly Michael DiRienzo, the CEO of Hunter New England Health. He has to go, as far as I and my communities are concerned.

"The recommendation for an independent health administration ombudsman to review concerns around the administration of LHDs is critical.

"So too is the revival of the local health advisory committees and health advisory committees that have teeth and that have local people from local communities holding the health service managers and health district CEOs to account.

"In terms of health care in the bush, it is a bloody raw deal. It has to change. We have the road map and we should not delay implementing it."

Westpac Rescue Helicopter Service Thanks Volunteers Making Communities 'Better Together'

As Australia celebrates National Volunteer Week (May 16-22), the regions Westpac Rescue Helicopter Service is acknowledging the valuable contribution of its dedicated volunteers in making Northern NSW communities 'Better Together' – the theme of this year's National Volunteer Week.

The Service has over 900 loyal volunteers, scattered across Northern NSW towns in over 40 Volunteer Support Groups and six (6) Op Shops, undertaking a variety of fundraising initiatives from raffles to BBQ's and major events.

"Our volunteers have long made a vital contribution to our fundraising efforts to assist the Westpac Rescue Helicopter to service the communities of Northern NSW," Westpac Rescue Helicopter Service CEO Richard Jones OAM said.

"Through the provision of our world class aeromedical service from our three Bases in Tamworth, Lismore and Belmont and the support of our fantastic volunteers in Volunteer Support Groups right across our service area, we are making the communities we service 'Better Together'," Jones continued.

"Volunteering brings people together; it builds communities and creates a better society for everyone. During COVID lockdowns, many of our volunteers were unfortunately restricted from the formal structures of face to face volunteering but we were heartened to know that so many kept their close contacts and friendships and our wonderful volunteers found new ways to support our operations and their local communities."

"National Volunteer Week is a chance for all of us to celebrate and recognise the vital work of not only our own volunteers but all who selflessly give of their time in their local community. Importantly though, in the wake of COVID, I'd like to take the opportunity to welcome our volunteers back to their Support Groups and say thank you for their continued support and dedication to helping others through their efforts," Jones said.

"On behalf of our staff, the Board and Regional Advisory Committees, I would like to thank every person who has or continues to volunteer for the Service, especially in the wake of the challenges faced during COVID and more recently the devastating floods on the Northern Rivers," Jones concluded.

Men's Bowls

Three games were played last weekend. In the club pairs Cameron Peardon and Murray Bourke played Robert Moore and Paul Johnson. Robert and Paul led for the 1st 8 ends, only to see Cameron and Murray take the lead with two ends to play. Fitz and Porky knuckled down to win the last two ends and win the game 25-20.

In a game of minor singles Anthony Bull was too strong for Geoff Reeves winning 3120, and in Handicap singles Randy Mulligan having his 1st competition game wasn't disgraced going down to Robert Walls 31-21.

Two games are set down for Sunday with a 12 o'clock start. In minor singles Shane Brennan will play Wayne Reeves with Geoff Reeves to mark, and in major/minor pairs Robert Moore and Cameron Peardon will take on Michael Shiner and Corby Kliendienst.

Vets Golf

Last Tuesday 14 players competed in Individual Stable-ford, still playing the front nine twice. The winner with 35 points was the consistent Phil Devlin with Roger Grills 2 shots behind as runner up.

The best putter on the day was Len Stanley with 27 putts on greens that are in great shape and the occasional pin placing testing the skills.

Nearest the pins on the 7th went to Herb Wilson the first nine and Phil Devlin on the second nine.

This week we have a very strong team traveling to Uralla to compete in the final round of the Pennants. Hopes are high that we can come home with the trophy again this year. Good luck.
