Funding next step for rail trail

Passions ran high at Armidale Regional Council's October meeting, with opposing sides in the rail trail debate turning up to witness a vote about the future of the proposed New England Rail Trail.

The council meeting resolved to endorse the development of a rail trail, subject to securing funding.

Speaking in favour of a recommendation before council in support of moving forward with the proposed rail trail, Cr Peter Bailey said the alternative is the continuation of 30-year abandonment of the rail corridor.

"For once in my lifetime the state government is flush with money – it is up to us to go forward," Cr Bailey said.

"This debate has soldiered on for a long time and we are all well aware of both sides of argument. This is a now project, this is retail measure we can take to help move forward to help revitalise Guyra."

ARC Mayor Simon Murray said that the consultant's feasibility report gives council confidence a rail trail on the New England corridor could be financially viable and a significant

OPPOSITE SIDES: Rail trail supporters and opponents were on hand to witness the vote which will see council pursue government funding drawcard for this region, as well as a recreation and health asset for residents.

"Its favourable findings give us a solid platform to pursue government funding and to take our investigations to the next step.

"That will include a detailed business case study and consultation with the community, now we have a much clearer picture of the proposed project, its estimated costs and potential benefits for the region."

"It's important to note this is not a choice between trains or a rail trail. In the approximately 30 years since rail services operated in the corridor, there has been no viable proposition to restore rail operations on that line and the State Government has firmly indicated it was highly unlikely any train services would be viable in the foreseeable future."

The consultant's plan states the NSW Government "has clearly indicated" the railway corridor would remain in public ownership if it was converted to a rail trail.

Cr Murray said that given that scenario, the responsible action by Council is to explore alternative uses for the incredibly scenic corridor and the wonderful assets along its route.

Mara Grills - a hidden treasure

The Rural Women's Network recently inducted 87 women who volunteer in rural NSW to the Hidden Treasure Honour Roll.

Mara Grills was one of those who was recognised for the work she does to make the Guyra and district community a better place to live.

Hidden Treasures is an annual initiative of the Department of Primary Industries' Rural Women's Network which recognises the outstanding efforts of women volunteers in NSW and promotes the valuable role of volunteering to the community.

Mara lives and works in the Guyra community running a family farm as well as raising three children with her husband Anthony.

Mara is the Bald Blair Public School P&C catering coordinator and working bee coordinator. She is also catering coordinator for both Guyra Pony Club and Guyra Polocrosse. Mara caters for small schools' cross country events, school welcome BBQs, school presentation nights and community gatherings, the annual Polocrosse carnival and the week-long pony camp and, in 2018, the district pony camp jamboree.

Mara can whip up a batch of scones, or chainsaw a tree for the working bee, while coordinating a team of women making homemade sausage rolls. She has a little black book that is her catering bible and is a wonderful source for recipes, quantities and contacts. She does an amazing job of coordinating local people to feed so many and is great fun to work with. She is a treasure for our community.

DPI Rural Women's Network Project Officer, Emma Regan said the Honour roll is a vital way to recognise the unsung heroes in our community.

"It's extremely important that we celebrate the valuable work of volunteers, from the provision of everyday services to their assistance in times of emergency, volunteers are the bedrock of our rural communities," she said.

"The people recognised are the powerhouses of their communities, who get all the jobs done that many of us take for granted. What all of these women have in common are their energy, their kindness and enthusiasm."

Artworks the main attraction

Guyra Central School students have been celebrated for their outstanding artworks to feature in an upgrade of their town's main street.

A ceremony was held as part of last Thursday's Armidale Regional Council meeting, to present students Bronte Stanley, Rogue Stannard and Colleen Pearson with certificates of recognition for their artworks submitted to the Guyra Main Street Redevelopment Public Art Competition.

Bronte received an individual certificate for her magpie illustration, while Rogue was recognised for his cockatoo design. It is proposed their designs will be used for murals on a new bus shelter, street shop or public toilets. Colleen's wonderful selection of photographs will be used in a collage graphic to wrap around

The certificates were presented by the Chair of Council's Arts & Cultural Advisory Committee, Councillor Margaret O'Connor, who said the judging panel was thrilled by the quality and creativity of entries.

"Council is hoping to work with a public artist to transform the artworks into public art designs to be incorporated into new infrastructure for the main street redevelopment," Cr O'Connor said.

"The project is also an opportunity for senior students to learn the principles of creating public art. Local artists Brian Irving and Kay Smith provided valuable mentoring support for the students."

Central school students worked on their designs over two terms, under the guidance of art teacher Clea Townsend and Principal Michelle Nicholson. The senior students created designs of two local iconic animals, the echidna and cockatoo, to be incorporated into footpath pavers.

A combined work by the primary school students will be utilised for a stained glass window graphic and will wrap around new street bins.

Triple treat for Neighbourhood Centre

Guyra's Neighbourhood Centre, The Hub at Guyra, will get a $400,000 upgrade and extension, allowing it to expand its services and increase its reach to people in need of critical support and advocacy.

The funding from the NSW government will allow for the a 330 square metre addition along the building's rear and side creating a range of new spaces and amenities, effectively tripling the operational space.

Member for Northern Tablelands Adam Marshall said that the current building lacks essential modern conveniences and this funding will address that issue.

"The neighbourhood centre is a safe, neutral space for the community to get help or advice about accessing other programs to help them. This funding is effectively future proofing this organisation for its community."

Centre co-ordinator Chris

Guyra Neighbourhood Centre Co-ordinator Chris Hietbrink with Adam Marshall MP, celebrating the funding news to expand the Hub.

Hietbrink said the project would see the space triple in size for community use but also provide some essential amenities like a dedicated kitchen.

"The space will include three offices with space for service providers who are here weekly, fortnightly and monthly, a boardroom, and a new office for our own services which will house our IT and reception systems," Mrs Hietbrink said. "But there will also be a new disabilities toilet and shower and men's and women's bathrooms, and a kitchen.

Mrs Hietbrink said most people didn't understand what Neighbourhood Centres do in their communities.

"It's a community hub and it's one of the most successful programs and provides a meeting place and a facility for so many groups and services and community programs," she said.

"This includes a range from psychology, disabilities recruitment, parental, TAFE, Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous, legal services, and youth and family support. Anyone can come and use our space and some use it more regularly than others."

Mrs Hietbrink said it was hoped the renovation and extension work would get underway soon, after a tender process for the works. The next target for The Hub will be to source equipment and furnishings to fit-out the new spaces.

The heritage building is council owned, built over 100 years ago as the school master's residence.

The Glen Innes Food Hub served up breakfast and distributed food hampers at Ben Lomond Public School

Students at Ben Lomond Public school received a special treat last Thursday, with breakfast and a delivery of food hampers for each of the families.

Arriving at school the students were excited to receive a fully cooked breakfast, with many of the students choosing to forgo their usual toast and cereal at home for the promise of something a bit more substantial.

The breakfast was provided by members of the Glen Innes Seventh Day Adventist Church who run the Glen Innes Food Hub. Jennifer Berry and Jenni Lloyd-Ward prepared an array of cooked and cold food for the students with the help of Ben Lomond P & C. Food for the breakfast was donated by Woolworths and Sanitarium.

Each family in the school also received a food hamper donated by Foodbank in Sydney. The hampers are being distributed to drought stricken communities across the State.

Fashion and fun

Can Assist is preparing to host its popular Melbourne Cup lunch and fashion parade. This fundraiser will be held at the Guyra Bowling & Recreation Club on Tuesday November 6th.

It will be a big day for those who like to punt on the big race, but also for those who are into the social side of things. If you want to get the day off to an early start, you can tee off in a two-man golf ambrose from 9.30am.

The indoor action will start from 11.30am with a fashion parade featuring fashions from Noni B. There will be the usual sweeps, raffles, lucky door prizes and you can also try your luck in the fashion stakes with prizes for the best dressed lady and the best hat. A two course lunch will be served and of course the race itself can be viewed on the big screen.

Tickets for parade are $25 and are available from the Bowling Club or GALA. Tickets must be collected by Friday afternoon November 3rd. Thanks to Guyra Fuels and Kirks IGA for donating the first and second prizes in the raffle.

Anyone wanting further details please contact Wendy Jackson 0427 750188 or David Bearup 0412 856 679

Singers wanted for Choir

As Christmas is fast approaching, the Combined Churches Choir will be starting to rehearse for the annual Christmas Carol Services.

Please come along and sing with us - singing is so good for you!! Everyone can sing and we would love to have some new members for the choir.

We will be singing at the newly renovated Ben Lomond Hall on Monday, 17th December at 7.30 and at the Catholic Church on a date to be advised.

This year we will be practising at St Mary's school hall on Monday nights - 19th and 26th of November and 3rd and 10th of December. We hope to see some new faces on November 19th!

'Women Like Us' comedy show a must see

HealthWISE are bringing the two-hour comedy show Women Like us to Guyra for a very special show and three course meal. There is no greater way to really unwind than with a laugh with your mates about the everyday stuff that gets under your skin! So join Mandy Nolan and Ellen Briggs, the comedic super stars behind the successful touring show Women Like Us.

They have taken the raw power of their solo stand up and combined forces to create not one, but two hours of rapid fire stand up, delivering laughs every 15 seconds. It's relentless, and show after show audience members continue to be amazed that the two can not only keep the pace, they build throughout the night, bringing audiences to their feet cheering for more.

It started out as an idea by two women comics to step away from the male dominated comedy scene into venues where women's stories and experiences are centre stage.

They call themselves 'the bogan woman's thinking woman and the thinking woman's bogan'.

The show is two hours of stand-up comedy, an hour a piece by these powerful, no holds barred, tell it how it is, pin up girls for what they call Real Women.

"We want our comedy to demystify a lot of the garbage that we're fed about being women," Ellen Briggs said. "We tell everyday stories about our struggles, our failure to parent, the beauty industry, getting fatter, strange surgeries, obsessions, frustrations, and at the end of the day, who unpacks the dishwasher."

Women Like Us is stand up at its best, where Ellen and Mandy talk about housework, chickens, love, big undies, disappointment, resentment, sex when you're drunk, fit bits, yoga farts and being a menopausal woman dealing with teenage angst.

They're overworked, overweight and over it....and they're coming soon!

They will be performing at the Guyra Community Hall, with a 3 Course meal and show for $25 per person. Catering provided by Paul Mailfert - Jazzamatanz Catering, Armidale.

Guest Speakers include:

- Anna Hicks, HealthWISE Dietitian, presenting "Food for Mood".

- Kate Stewart, HealthWISE Mental Health Clinician, presenting "Do You See What I See - Women and Self Care".

- Kelly Foran, CEO of Friendly Faces Helping Hands.

Back to Black Mountain

Reunion organisers Alison Hutchens and Tim Snell with Adam Marshall MP

Black Mountain was overrun with visitors on Saturday as former residents toured the village. They were visiting for the Back to Black Mountain Reunion and many took the opportunity to spend the morning taking in the sights including the school, railway station and Church.

Tim Snell and Alison Hutchens (nee Youman) were the driving force behind the reunion, which was attended by around 120 former and current residents. Visitors came from the local area as well as Grafton, Brisbane, Newcastle, and Sydney.

The idea for the reunion came over a catch up between the former school friends and they were more than pleased with the rollup for the day.

Starting with the tour of the village, the proceedings moved to the Guyra Bowling Club for lunch and a chance to catch up with family and friends.

To mark the occasion two of the oldest attendees, Lauris Hutton and Joy Snell, cut the cake made by Robyn Knight, daughter-in-law of former stationmaster Fred Knight.

Preschoolers out and about

Guyra Preschool and Long Day Care Centre kids and staff spent last week out and about in the community, enjoying local attractions to celebrate Children's Week.

National Children's Week was held on 19-28 November to celebrate children's rights and their right to enjoy childhood.

The preschool kids visited the Guyra Library, parks, the Guyra Café and Armidale Sport & Recreation Centre.

They spent time interacting and building relationships with local community members and taking advantages of the luxuries in the Guyra community.

The children and the preschool educators were left with many wonderful memories.

Preschoolers enjoyed lots of activities last week

Celebration of Learning

The students of Black Mountain have been very busy. All students shone at the schools annual Celebration of Learning. Family and friends joined us for the event, having the wonderful opportunity of watching all students perform.

Students took the audience back to the past dancing to Let's Twist Again, entertained parents with their recital of I Took My Doggy for a Walk, and performed the play Puss In Boots to name only a few of the amazing items students presented on the night. Students from Transition to Kindergarten through to Year Six took to the stage showing off their confidence, cooperation, persistence and leadership skills.

The way in which our students support and encourage each other to do their best was obvious on the night and is the amazing school culture we see at our school every day. Black Mountain Public School is a great place to learn and is where every student has every opportunity to shine.

Mayor's Message

A feasibility study into a possible rail trail along the disused rail corridor between Armidale and Glen Innes was endorsed by last week's Council meeting, opening the door for more detailed investigations.

The New England Rail Trail plan, compiled by an independent consultant, found a rail trail on the disused New England rail corridor has the scenery and historic features to be a major attraction for visiting and local users and could be expected to pay for itself within a few years.

The consultant's feasibility report gives us confidence a rail trail on the New England corridor could be financially viable and a significant drawcard for this region, as well as a recreation and health asset for our residents. Its favourable findings give us a solid platform to pursue government funding and to take our investigations to the next step.

That will include a detailed business case study and consultation with the community, now we have a much clearer picture of the proposed project, its estimated costs and potential benefits for the region.

Rail trails are shared-use paths recycled from abandoned railway corridors, providing a safe and inviting place for walking, cycling or horse riding away from motorised vehicles. They capitalise on the scenic beauty of the route, the historic railway infrastructure and other attractions to lure visitors to the area, while providing a safe path for families and other locals to exercise or commute.

They link towns, villages and attractions along the route and the success of similar trails in Australia and overseas has helped to rejuvenate many centres that were otherwise in economic and social decline.

While further steps must be taken before Council could fully commit to establishing the rail trail, investigations so far indicate the project would be a great way to utilise a corridor that has sat unused and idle for approximately three decades. It's important to note this is not a choice between trains or a rail trail.

In the approximately 30 years since rail services operated in the corridor, there has been no viable proposition to restore rail operations on that line and the State Government has firmly indicated it was highly unlikely any train services would be viable in the foreseeable future.

But the creation of a rail trail would not prevent the reintroduction of trains along the corridor if circumstances changed enough for train service to be viable again in the future.

The corridor will remain in public ownership and its utilisation for a rail trail would encourage the use and preservation of railway stations and other assets. This is a way to make effective use of the land - boosting the health of our residents and the local economy - while keeping the door open for trains if they ever became viable again.

Public exhibition Draft Asbestos Policy

Council has updated its Asbestos Policy so it is consistent with NSW legislative requirements, based on the Model Asbestos Policy for NSW Councils.

The policy outlines:

- the role of Council and other organisations in managing asbestos
- Council's relevant regulatory powers and approval processes
- Council's approach to dealing with naturally occurring asbestos, sites contaminated by asbestos and emergencies or incidents
- general advice for residents on renovating homes that may contain asbestos
- waste management and regulation procedures for asbestos waste in the LGA
- Council's approach to managing Council workplaces that might contain asbestos

The Draft Asbestos Policy is on Public Exhibition from Friday 26 October to Friday 30 November.

Masterclass for history enthusiasts

Heritage and history enthusiasts from throughout the region have received expert advice about curating their collections, during a workshop hosted by Council on Thursday.

Museum of Applied Arts and Sciences (MAAS) Curator Damian McDonald provided a full-day workshop designed to help regional organisations maintain community-owned collections.

Representatives from the Armidale Folk Museum and Hillgrove Museum – which are both administered by Council – were joined by members from the Armidale, Guyra, Glen Innes and Walcha historical societies.

Dot Vickery and Martha Weiderman represented the Guyra and District Historical Society.

The Guyra Museum is currently undergoing extensive renovations which has been the impetus for reorganising the museum's collection. They believe the workshop was valuable and informative.

Members of the Guyra & District Historical Society were represented

"For those of us who are looking after the museum it was well timed and extremely helpful," Martha said.

"It has helped us with decisions on how to display to best advantage all the wonderful artifacts that can be found in the Guyra Historical Museum."

Participants were provided with support materials and guidance on how to manage their collections, including developing exhibitions, formulating acquisition policies, identifying significant objects and writing labels.

MAAS is Australia's contemporary museum for excellence and innovation in applied arts and sciences. Established in 1879, its venues include Sydney's Powerhouse Museum, the Sydney Observatory and Discovery Centre.

"It's so important for regional communities to have access to skill development in managing and curating their local heritage objects," Armidale Folk Museum Team Leader Hayley Ward said.

"Managing and conserving local heritage is an incredible privilege and it's important that we're looking after these collections for future generations to enjoy."

Weekly Wool Sales

Rural Market Reports

There were some large adjustments to price levels as the market opened this week, particularly in the finer micron and Merino Carding categories. The Eastern Market Indicator fell 72 cents on the first day of sales and a further 24 cents on the final day. AWEX figures indicate that this was the largest weekly fall in the EMI in 15 years. The sharp falls took their toll on the clearance rates with almost 23% of the national offering passed in, with another 7% withdrawn prior to sale. This resulted in just 25,826 bales being sold for the week. Major buyers included Seatech, Tianyu and Kathaytex. This week's 12% fall in the Merino Carding indicator has left it as the only category in the negative compared to the corresponding period last season. The price premium for the Superfine types has continued to be eroded as the distinct lack of supply in the mid micron types appears to be holding them in good stead. 75,000 fewer bales have now been offered compared to the corresponding period last season. This equates to around two average size national weekly sales. Forward market prices for the next two months especially for 21 microns are not far under this week's close.

Junior cricket

The under 14s have started their season with a win against Hillgrove. Tahmani Landsborough and Ty Mulligan opened for Guyra and made a solid start to the innings. Tahmani was the big hitter retiring at 52 not out and reaching the boundary ten times. Brodi Campbell also batted well to finish with 25 and Guyra finished their innings with a well compiled 145.

Guyra took some early wickets and had Hillgrove on the back foot early with the first four wickets falling for just 7 runs. Hillgrove's tail wagged however they fell short of Guyra to be all out for 112.

Best will the ball for Guyra was Brodi Campbell 3 for 2 and Keith Landsborough 2 for 15. Others to take wickets were Ben Reinke, Brendan Landsborough, Malekai Landsborough and Shakel Irving-Frost.

The under 12s also recorded a win, with captain Jack Soraghan winning the toss and electing to bat against Walcha.

Things got off to a nervous start and batsmen weren't lasting long in the middle. Before long it was 3 out for only 2 runs. The boys settled down, defended well and took any extras they could. Tynan Bull, Jared Frost and Aidan Brown were able to retire after facing their 20 balls. The three boys later returned with Jared Frost (40 not out) and Aidan Brown (24 not out) being able to last the full 25 overs.

Due to improved communication and some fast running between wickets, including 40 runs off extras, Guyra finished their innings on 117.

Guyra fielded well again this week. Success from bowling was widespread with Angus Dullaway, Jack Soraghan, Jason Mowbray, Cameron Frost, Tynan Bull and Aidan Brown getting one wicket each. Lincoln Brown was able to get two out including a caught and bowled.

Guyra won the match with Walcha's final score being 8/73.

Next week's match is at home against the Ex Services Club.
